Yamani's remarks send pound tumbling

FIVE YEARS WARRANTY

VOL. VI NO. 285

LONDON, Sept. 8 (Agencies) — The call for a drop in oil prices made by Petroleum and Mineral Resources Minister Sheikh Zaki Yamani Toesday in Arab News sent the pound sterling tumbling about 2.5 cents to $1.7945 from the overnight close of $1.8190.

The dollar meantime rose against all major currencies except the French franc in early European trading Tuesday.

The Associated Press blamed the slump of the pound, its worst performance since Aug. 11, to "Sheikh Yamam's remarks that the oil prices should be decreased."

"Dealers translated Sheikh Yamani's forecast into lower oil revenues for Britain highlighting the effect of this on the already fragile British economy," the AP added.

The Agence France de Presse also reported from the British capital that some dealers thought the weakness of the pound was "a result of a statement by Sheikh Yamani to Arab News and its sister Arabic daily Ashara al Awant Tuesday to the effect that Nigeria was about to reduce its oil price to $32 or even $31 a barrel after the late August drop from $40 to $36."

This did little to help sterling on the markets", the AFP quoted dealers as saying. It added that Britain cut its North Sea oil price from $39.25 to $35 in June, "and if Mr. Yamani is right Britain may well have to reduce its price further."

Reuters agreed that the weakness of sterling following Sheikh Yaman's opposition to oil price increases "depressed British government bonds initially, but most recovered to overnight levels."

Another reason for the pound's weakness was that London interest rates are no longer competitive as against U.S. rates. The way the British economic situation is evolving has caused concern on the market. The Bank of England was Tuesday thought likely to aunounce a further excessive rise in the noncy supply, and scholesale prices, were. expected to reveal a faster increase.

Other late dollar rates in Europe, comnared with Monday's finish:

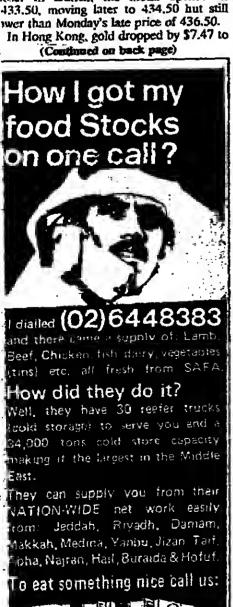

5.8225 French francs, up from 5.8170 1.213.63 Italian lire, down from 1,215.50

2.6930 Dutch luildere, down from 2.6540 1.1993 Canadian dollar down from Earlier, in Tokyo, where markets close refore the open in Europe, the dollar closed it 232.05 yen, compared with 230.85 on londay. Dealers said the rise was a result of uying by foreign and Japanese banks in need of dollars for import settlement.

London's five bullion houses fixed a mornig recommended gold price of $434.25 a toy ounce, down from 437.25 at Monday's lose. In Zurich, the metal opened at 433.50, moving later to 434.50 hut still twer than Monday's late price of 436.50.

living than we do," Schmidt said, crediting Japan's foreign trade success to the fact that Payrolls one lower in Japan than Europe." "Those who maintain that West Germany should introduce the work norms that prevail in Japan should say clearly that they want to bring real salaries and pensions down to the Japanese level," the chancellor said. Schmidt disagreed, however, with suggestions that one reason for Japan's booming foreign trade was that the Tokyo government spent relatively little money on defense and could help industry become more competitive by offering tax breaks. In any case, he added, it would be "politically and morally unthinkable" to try to force a country into spending more on defense simply to bring that nation down to an equal economic footing with its competitors.

"It remains to be seen — but on this point I'm not going to commit myself — whether an increase in the Japanese defense budget might not be desirable, given the way in which the balance of military forces in the Far East is developing" to the detriment of the West, he said.

Iran snaps pre-79 oil pacts

NICOSIA, Sept. 8 (AP) — Iran canceled Tuesday all contracts signed before the 1979 revolution with multi-national oil companies, the Iranian Oil Ministry announced.

The announcement, carried by the official Iranian news agency, Pars said the agreement had been signed with a group of U.S., British, Dutch and French companies following the Aug. 1953 anti-Mosaddeq coup. It added that the cancellation decision, taken by a special oil ministry commission, has been conveyed to the affected companies.

The oil ministry has also formed a board to investigate any claims resulting from the measure and followup the matter, possibly through international circles until their final settlement and recovery of the legitimate rights of the Iranian people," the announce-

Sapphire stolen as cobra watches

*LONDON, Sept. 8 (Al') — A deadly cobra guards the world's third largest sapplier at a London exhibition, but thieves stole other gems there by using a key.

Four smaller blue sapphires worth $25,340 are missing from a display case near the case with the serpent. The 4-foot 6-inch cobra is locked up with a 383-carat sapphire worth $1.81 million at show of jewels from Sri Lanka at the Commonwealth Institute in Kensington. Total value of the jewels on show is $20 million.

"There was a roomful of people present, but obviously everyone was looking at the big stone and keeping a wary eye on the cobra when the thieves struck," police said Monday, after news of the robbery last wednesday finally leaked out. "It's a pity we didn't have poisonous snakes in all the cases," said a Sri Lankan official.

said they strongly denounced the Israeli attack upon the nuclear research center and their unrelenting assaults on Lebanon. President Jayewardene endorsed Crown Pri re Fahd's eight-point plan for peace in the Middle East and called for the preservation of Lebanon's national unity and territorial integrity. The two leaders also called the Israeli attack on Iraq's reactor an overt violation of the United Nations Charter, international codes, ethics and human rights.

In other international issues the two countries mentioned their concern for the Iraq-Iran war, the growing super-power presence in the Indian Ocean, the international conference on Kampuchea and the U.N. Conference on the Law of the Sea. The two countries proclaimed their total support for the establishment of a new international economic order to safeguard peace, justice and security in the world. Fahd terms talks extremely useful

PARIS, Sept. 8 (Agencies) — Crown Prince Fahd discussed the Arab-Israeli con-flict Tuesday with President Francois Mitterrand, who will be visiting Saudi Arabia this month. He told reporters that talks "were extremely good." After the one-day visit Prince Fahd left

Paris. He was seen off by French External Affairs Minister Claude Cheysson, the Saudi Arabian Ambassador to France Sheikh Jamil Al Hegelan and members of the embassy. Chevsson, who will accompany President

Mitterrand to Saudi Arabia from Sept. 26 to 28, said the talks were "lengthy and cordial" and covered Prince Fahd's proposal for a Middle East peace settlement. Prince Fahd last month listed eight principles for peace in the Middle East, including Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands, the establishment of a Palestinian state with Jerusalem as its capital and the right of all states in the region to live in peace. Mitterrand welcomed Prince Fahd's statement, telling his cabinet that Saudi Arabia had chosen the path of diplomacy rather than war. European foreign ministers meeting informally outside London over the weekend took note of Prince Fahd's plan, saying it had much in common with their joint declaration on the Middle East issued at the Vienna summit in 1980.

After the meeting the crown prince said he hriefed President Mitterrand on Saudi

Franco-British summit tomorrow PARIS, Sept. 8 (AFP) - Cooperation on bilateral European and international questions will be the aim of the Franco-British summit in London on Thursday and Friday the first since François Mitterrand's election as president in May.

Mitterrand will meet British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher for now hours soon after his arrival Thursday afternoon, to be followed by a one-bour meeting Friday. The second meeting will bring in other officials of the two countries. Mitterrand and Mrs. icher nave aiready excha the Luxembourg European summit in June, the industrialized countries' summit in Ottawa in July and Prince Charles wedding later the same month.

The Socialist president and Conservative prime minister take very different angles on economic and social policies, and French and British interests in the Common Market do not always coincide.

However, observers believe disagreements will not affect the strength of the two countries' links, or their shared attitude in bilateral and world matters.

The summit will be official but informal. It will have no rigid agenda, though various themes and preoccupation will be evident. Observers in Paris feel the purpose of the get-together is essentially political, and it will be concerned with the international situation, general economic developments and Euro-years experience.

A spokesman for the Education Ministry said that the government has an ambitious plan to eradicate illiteracy before 1991. The ministry has mobilized all its material, moral and human potentialities to realize the objective. Already the illiteracy rate among males dropped to 51.90 percent and among women by 63.68 percent. The total drop in the rate for both sexes is 57.92 percent.

The National Guard also npened scores of adult education and literacy schools all over the country to raise the standard of its soldiers and their families. The Guard's literacy schools in various provinces total 35. Some of its schools, like the two recently-opened primary schools, are supervised by the Education Ministry. It also has an ambitious plan for the total eradication of illiteracy from the National Guard. It gives SR500 to anyone who obtains the primary school certificate; SR200 to those possessing this certificate; SR250 to holders of an intermediate school certificate and SR300 to secondary school

NEW YORK. Sept. 8 (Agencies) — Orthodox Jews staged a hostile demonstration here Monday night against visiting Israeli Premier Menahem Begin. The protest did not involve the major issues which Begin will discuss with President Ronald in Washington. It centered rather on an archaeology-versus-religions controversy back home where orthodox Jews clashed with police while trying to block excavations.

About 1,000 protesters, resisted by sizable detachments of police, used hullhorns to try to reach Begin's ears with such slogans as 'end Zionist programs" and "End police brutality."

There was no reaction from the Begin delegation, which occupied four floors of a hotel which had been surrounded since Sunday hy protective harricades and units of police and secret service agents. The demonstrators, representing the Central Rabbinical Congress of the United States and Canadia. distributed tracts saying, "We will announce to all the nations that orthodox Jewry has no part or parcel with the atheistic Zionist regime and all its abominations." When Begin stayed at the same New York botel last November, he was the target of demonstrations by Palestinians and pro-Arab militants. Some 2,000 black-hatted and black-suited orthodox Jews gathered outside the hotel and roared opposition to archeological digs in Israel they say are "disturbing the graves of

A leaflet distributed by the congress charged that in Israel people protesting the digging are "heaten murderously hy the wicked club-weilding police, who have not demanded from throwing tear-gas bombs on anyone who happens to look Jewish."

Rahbi Hillel Handler, a congress official, thanked "the American people in this wonderful land of freedom for permitting them to demonstrate peacably." He drew loud applause when he said, "Bless President Reagan and all the members of his government," and praised "New York's finest," the policemen who despite working overtime on President Reagan's visit to New York Monday and the Labor Day parade. "have been so kind to us...in stark contrast to the activities of the police in Israel."

Meanwhile, in Israel two ultra-orthodox Jewish leaders were arrested Monday during demonstrations against excavations, a police spokesman said.

Treasury raid by Begin alleged

TEL AVIV, Sept. 8 (Agencies) - Massive government subsidies during the campaign for Israel's general election in June have sbarply increased the deficit government spending and the economy is in shabbles, according to official figures published Tnes-

The opposition has accused Prime Minister Menahem Begin's government of raiding the treasury during the campaign to try to increase public support. Taxes on a wide range of durable goods were reduced and increased subsidies kept prices of basic foods relatively lowdespite three-figure inflation.

Figures issued by the Bank of Israel show that the gap between government spending and revenue from taxes between April and August rose by 50 percent compared with the same period last year. Bank officials said that recent increases in prices of fuel and postal charges, accompanied by a freeze on new contracts with private companies, were measures to reduce the deficit.

Sadat can't crush opposition

MOSCOW, Sept. 8 (R) - The Soviet Communist Party daily Pravda said Tuesday Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's crackdown on political and religious critics would not weaken opposition to his government. Pravda repeated earlier Soviet accusations that Sadat's roundup of over 1,500 people this week was aimed at silencing opposition to his policies and not at ending religious strife, as the president stated.

The paper said anger with the present leadership was spreading amongst ordinary Egyptians and the arrests would make no difference to the opposition to President Sadat's economic and foreign policies." The discontent is becoming increasingly apparent in Egypt and it cannot be eliminated by use of the police," Pravda said.

By inviting foreign investment, the leadership had undermined the national economy and brought about a drop in living standards. Pravda went on. In foreign affairs, it had managed only to make Egypt "subordinate to U.S. imperialism", it added.

Kuwait denies kidnap report

KUWAIT, Sept. 8 (AP) — Kuwait Tnes-day denied as "untrue" Lebanese press reports that four Kuwaiti embassy guards in Beirut had been abducted and released Monday night, a foreign ministry spokesman said.

Foreign Ministry Undersecretary Faisal Salah Motawa was referring to reports in the Lebanese newspapers Az -Nahar and Al-Liwa which reported that they had received a call from a man identifying himself as Khalifa Mosleh, claiming responsibility for the alleged abduction.

The two newspapers said Mosleh's brothers had been responsible for the hijack of a Kuwaiti Airlines Boeing-737 while on a regular Beirut-Kuwait flight July 24, 1980.

They had at the time demanded the Kuwaiti government intervene to help get them the equivalent of $750,000 they claimed was due to them by a Kuwaiti merchant.

The hijacking ended after the safe release of all 80 passengers and crew without the claim being settled. The hijackers were granted safe conduct.

Khomeini warns of likely attack on parliament

TEHRAN, Sept. 8 (Agencies) - Aystol-ish Khomeini warned Monday that Iran's parliament was the next most likely bombing target for leftist guerrilles seeking to overthrow his regime.

In a speech broadcast by Tehran radio, Khomeini said he has asked Parliament Speaker Hojatoleslam Ali-Akbar Rafianiani to ascertain that the parliament guards were all trustworthy.

"I have repeatedly told Rafanjani Parliament is important and is certainly a target." the 81-year-old Ayatoliah said. "Those responsible for its security should be persons known and trusted 100 percent." Khomeini spoke to the central committee of the ruling Islamic Republican Party (IRP) as it called on him at his Jamaran residence in Tehran. The committee is headed by Hojatoleslam Ati Khamenei who recovered from an amanination attempt by a booby-trapped taperconder at a Tehran mosque June 27. The IRPs Tehran headquarters was blown up the next day. The party founder and secretary general. Chief Justice Ayatollah Muhammad Beheshti, was killed in the blast along with 71 other IRP officials.

Khamenei was elected IRP secretary general nine days ago, succeeding Hojatoleslam Muhammad Bahonar, Bahonar, who was also Prime minister, was killed along with President Muhammad Ali Rajai hy a firebomb at the prime ministry Aug. 30.

Khomeini warned that government opponents "have lost hope and are finished," and consequently they were apt to undertake desperate acts "like the cat which attacks the

"America also has become hopeless and. may be it will have other schemes," Khomeini went on. "But the more they assassinate of you, it is to their disadvantage; all these things were to our advantage, because God made Islam great with martyrdom."

The Tehran radio broadcast said demonstrations were held in several parts of Iran Tuesday to commemorate the third anniversary of the Sept. 8, 1978, "black Friday" when police forces of the late Shah muchinegunned protesters in the streets of Tehran, killing many of them.

Turk seeks asylum

COMOTINI, Greece, Spt. 8 (AFP) - A 28-year-old Turk has asked Greece for political asylum after secretly swimming across the Evros River between Greece and Turkey. Karasi Ahmet, a municipal employee living in Ankara, was to be transferred to a refugee camp in Lavrion, about 40 kms southeast of Athens, it was reported Monday.

Since the beginning of August, 36 Turkish citizens have asked for political asylum in Greece. Most swam across the Evors: --- for trilateral talks with neighboring Pakistan and Iran, instead of insisting on separate talks as in the past, and keeping an open mind on what role the United Nations should play in such discussions. Some Indian sources said they thought the flexibility also extended to whether President Bahrak Karmal would take part in such talks as head of government or head of a political party.

Both Pakistan and Iran bave condemned the Soviet military move into Afghanistan 20 months ago and refuse to recognize the Soviet-backed Karmal government, thus rejecting direct talks with Kabul. Dost's visit followed a period of hectic diplomatic activity, including his own trip to Moscow last month and visits to Pakistan and India by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Nikolai Firyubin.

Firyubin apparently failed to soften Pakistan's stand during his talks in Islamabad but President Muhammad Zia-Ul-Haq said later the new proposals showed "considerable flexibility." Flexibility was again the key word from Dost's talks in Delhi.

Dost, who had earlier visited Algeria, Syria and Ethiopia, told Mrs. Gandhi that these countries were concerned about the arms build-up and big power military presence in the Indian Ocean region.

A spokesman said that Mrs. Gandhi stressed the need for a political solution based on the proper historical perspective. She ooted that a political solution was being delayed because countries in the region were not taking a long-term perspective of the problems. The spokesman said that Dost had not asked India to play any mediatory role on the crisis.

CHARLES TO A CONTROL OF THE CONTROL

French President Francois Mitterrand could hold the key in negotiations to solve the Middle East crisis and result in the establishment of a Palestinian state. Involvement, actual involvement, something which other politicians have seemed afraid to attempt seems to be Mitterrand's answer to help solve the problem. The speed with which Mr. Mitterrand established contact with Saudi Arabía after his election was remarkable, and signalled his willingness to open immediate contact with the members of the Arab community who were most involved in obtaining Middle East peace.

Ties between Sandi Arabia and France have been strengthened on several occasions during the short period of time since Mitterrand's election. Initial discussions took place shortly after that election when King Khaled and the French president met in Paris; and of course great bope is held for the French president's upcoming visit to Saudi Arabia. Currently, Crown Prince Fahd is in Paris and it is noteworthy that all discussions have taken place with Fahd's Middle East peace proposals in the background — the first such proposal made by an Arab country since the Arab-Israeli conflict began 33

On the topic of Palestine autonomy, Mr. Mitterrand and his ambassadors have been walking a very fine line which assures him the best position to mediate the crisis and at the same time gives him a position with leverage. Although publicly stating support for an individual Palestine state, Mr. Mitterrand and his delegates have specifically avoided direct contact with the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) on their territory. This measure of safety maintains France's objectivity in the eyes of Israel. At the same time, France has met directly with PLO leader Yasser Arafat on "neutral ground," thus assuring Arabs that they do have an adequate grasp of the issues with the legitimate spokesman for Palestinian rights.

In the meantime, France has voiced its support for initiatives begun by the European Economie Community (EEC) but seems willing to take over since they have stalled in the consideration of economie issues. Mr. Mitterrand, therefore, seems to be willing to take an active role in negotiations while others state that a solution for the crisis must be found, but do not actually become involved. Involvement seems to be the path to a solution and if Mr. Mitterrand has anything to do with it an answer could be forthcoming in a short period of time.

Saudi Arabian

Most newspapers Tuesday led with official talks which were held Monday between King Khaled and President layewardene of Sri Lanka, on bilateral relations and current international issues. Meanwhile, Al Riyadk and Ohaz gave lead coverage to Crown Prince Fahd's meeting with French President Francois Mitterrand in Paris

Newspapers frontpaged the weekly meeting of the Council of Ministers which was held in Taif Monday under the chairmanship of Prince Abdullah, second deputy premier and commander of the National Guard. The council was reported to have authorized the Minister of Communications to put the Makkah/Medina expressway under implementation.

Al Bilad said in a front-page story that the European Economic Community (EEC), now meeting in London, has eportedly supported Saudi Arabia's peace plan on the Middle East issue. In a page one story, Al Medina reported that the Crown Prince has ordered the establishment of special courts to deal with commercial, labor and traffic disputes.

Newspaper editorials mostly dwelt on the Crown Prince's visit to Paris for talks with the French President. Al Nadwa described the visit as a fresh Saudi Arabian effort at the international level to re-emphasize the correct path for peace in the Middle East. The paper held the view that the talks in Paris will consider the manner in which the Saudi Arabian peace initiative should be given a practical move, especially as the eight-point plan is based on the resolutions of the United Nations and its various agencies. The paper hoped that the French lead-ership will back Prince Fahd's plan and will also strive to end the stalemate which prohibits the international community from taking a right course to curb injustice and tyranny being meted out to Arabs in the Middle

On the same subject, Al Riyadh observed that the Crown Prince's visit to Paris takes place with a desire to renew mutual understanding. France, the paper said, plays an undeniably important role in influencing the course of world events and takes free steps without being affected by any major power in the world. In the Arab and Islamic world, Saudi Arabia plays an identical role with a futl sense of responsibility which it has taken upon itself voluntarily, the paper said. It added that the Paris meeting will assume great significance in view of the present circumstances prevailing at the Arab and inter-

Okaz said in an editorial that Fahd-Mitterrand meeting is considered of paramount importance in the realization of a just and lasting peace in the Middle East. The paper expressed the belief that France as well as other EEC member states can play a real role in prevailing upon Israel to withdraw from Holy Jerusalem and to give the Palestinians the right to self-determination. Prince Fahd's visit to Paris confirms the growing understanding between the governments of the two countries, the paper said, and added that many French responsible circles and personalities have already described Prince Fahd's plan as a practical and realistic proposal to ensure lasting peace and justice in the Middle East. The paper said further that France and other countries of Europe are expected to plas a positive role in preserving economic and oil stability in the world, with a view to safeguarding world peace which includes peace in the

On the other hand, Al Jazirah observed that large international support fo Prince Fahd's peace proposal is no secret to the U.S. administration. It added that this support will continue to increase owing to Prince Fahd's current efforts during his European tour. The paper warned that the American administration and Congress will be faced with a delicate choice in their final stance on Israeli Premier Begin's demands. It added that Begin's basic objective is to ensure America's total bius toward Israel despite a change in the American public opinion.

Pope 'watching' events in Poland pontiff has recovered from his bullet wounds more By Michael Sheridan Pope...to try and silence a voice which has been

Pope John Paul's latest strong declaration of Polish nationalist sentiment and support for the free trade union Solidarity shows how far both the Pope and Solidarity have moved since the beginning of this year.

That was the verdict of Vatican and diplomatic sources after the Pope's weekend speech reminding Poles of the bloody sacrifices they had made in the past to preserve their independence and sovereignty. It displayed a notable change in tone from the start of the year, when the Pope and Solidarity leader Lech Walesa met in the Vatican. Then Pope John Paul declared that Solidarity's character was non-political and Walesa said "political problems as such do not interest us." Now the union bas said, "we are convinced that a revolution is under way in Poland and Solidarity is its driving force," and a special edition of a union newspaper described the union national consultative commission as "the only true parliament in

And on Sunday, Pope John Paul made his toughest defense of Poland's territorial integrity since his indirect warning last March to other nations not to interfere in Poland's affairs. His Polish-language speech, which was received with wild enthusiasm by banner-waving Solidarity members in the crowd at his weekly audience, recalled the Nazi invasion of Poland in emotive terms and included a rousing avowal of Polish national independence.

"This great barvest of death was - and is - our offering which confirms our will and our right to live as a nation which bas its own culture, its individuality and its own way of dealing with social issues and the dignity of labor," he said. Vatican and diplomatic experts were unanimous in judging that reminder to be aimed at the Soviet Union, which has about 100,000 soldiers on maneuvers around Poland's borders. Vatican sources said the speech was intended to show Moscow that the Pope, despite the attempt on his life in May, is once again closely watching events in his predominantly Catholic homeland.

According to anthoritative Vatican sources, the determined than ever to back up his fellowcountrymen's fight for a "democratic revolution" and greater freedom. He is known to be preparing the third encyclical of his pontificate and it is expected to address itself to precisely those social issues, which the Pope sees as the key to change in the other majority Catholic countries of eastern Europe, Hungary and Czechoslovakia.

Solidarity's first congress has underlined the pivotal role of the Catholic church in the union's development, with Poland's new primate, Archbishop Jozef Glemp, presiding at an opening mass. The Pope's speech demonstrated once again the strong emotive force which binds the Polish Catholic church with Polish national aspirations. And these emotions have also been brought to bear on another potent issue - th Pope Jhn Paul's life.

Archbishop Glemp said during his recent visit to the Vatican that there were "many areas of doubt" that the trial of the Pope's attacker, Mehmet Ali Agca, a Turk, had not cleared up. Cardinal Agostino Casaroli, the Vatican secretary of state, who is known as a moderate man and the architect of Vatican detente with the Eastern Bloc, is among several high-ranking officials who have hinted at a conspirycy behind the assassination attempt.

"A heart — or are they hearts — a hostile heart ... armed an enemy hand to attack the Pope, this raised only to proclaim truth, to preach charity and justice and to announce peace," he said. Agea refused to tell his interrogators who aided or funded him and insisted he acted alone, But last week, the Vatican was forced to deny

British press reports that it believed the KGB Soviet secret police was behind the attack, motivated by the need to silence Pope John Paul at a particularly sensitive period in the Polish crisis.

The British independent television program "TV Eye" reported that Vatican and Italian security services held a working hypothesis that the KGB was responsible. "The Holy See has never made any declarations nor expressed bypotheses regarding any organization and country whatever as possible instigators of the attack," a Vatican spokesman said.

Authoritative Vatican sources, however, report that although that has been the official response, the theories and beliefs held by influential individuals in the Vatican bave been less bland. The attempt on the Pope's life has apparently made his declarations more potent in their appeal to his fellow Poles.

Pope John Paul's enthusiasm for the cause of Solidarity, a cause he has been unable to support to the full during his illness and long convalescence, now appears likely to be stronger than

MX missile backfires

WASHINGTON -The MX mobile missile, designed to be the biggest, most accurate and most expensive strategic weapon America has ever bad, has found its first target — the Reagan administration. The president has committed himself to decide by this month how the MX is to be deployed, but meetings last week in California between Reagan and his senior advisers left the impression of an administration seized with Jimmy Carter-like indecisiveness Conservative champions of American military strength are not trying to hide their scorn. The liberals of the defense world say happily that the Reagan right has only itself to blame for a problem they created and now cannot cope with. The confusion is such that some defense experts believe there may now never be a mobile MX missile. It seems certain that it will never become on its own the answer to the Soviet strategic threat the administration is convinced exists.

To understand how the wonder weapon that was supposed to awe the Russians into good behavior has turned into the classic American can lof worms one should start with the liberals' point that Reagan's men have only themselves to blame.

The idea of the mobile MX crystalized in defense-thinkers' minds in the late 1970s. It was the answer to what they saw as a Soviet threat. coming in the next year or two: more numerous and more accurate Soviet warheads threatening for the first time the destruction of America's Minutemen strategic missiles in their silos. This, the argument ran, and still runs, would "neutralize the American deterrent."

The theory of "Minuteman vulnerability" was challenged as both untrue and unimportant, (America has plenty of other strategic nuclear weapons in submarines and bombers). But in an atmosphere of nervousness about growing Soviet strength and of an impulse to shake off post-Vietoam blues, the theory proved irresistible. The MX was the solution. Mobile, it was therefore not a sitting duck. Super-accurate, it could reverse the vulnerability table and threaten Russian missiles.

No one banged the MX drum harder than Reagan's supporters in the long lead up to the last election. Jimmy Carter, against the wishes of many of his advisers, was forced to announce his own plan for an MX though Reagan's men said this was a trick and the Democrats would never deploy it. The Carter missile that Reagan found in the White House files was truly a record-breaker. Making it mobile by a system of roads and shelters bad turned it into the biggest construction project in American history.

It would eat up 40 percent of American cement production for three years. Its roads would be a quarter as long as the federal interstate highway system and would be concentrated in the western desert states of Utah and Nevada. The MX's friends said it would cost $34 billion, its enemies three times as much.

This is where part of the problem began. Reagan had never liked the idea of putting a lot of his sort of American countryside down to concrete. His dislike was powerfully reinforced by the fact that two of his closest allies in the Senate are Republicans from Utah and Nevada. These senators are second to none in their enthusiasm for standing up to the Russians but neither wanted it done in this extravagant way from their states. Since then, experts in think-tanks all over the country have competed to produce more and more exotic ideas for locating the MX: in boles in the south side of mountains where they would be invulnerable to Russian missiles coming over the North Pole; in coastal submarines; in giant long-

Caspar Weinberger, the defense secretary, favored the latter to the horror of his air force generals, who, lurid leaks to the press suggested. were on the borders of revolt over it. The scheme was dropped because like all the others it was expensive but not flawless. Then came an unmistakable sign that part of the conservative defense establishment was sick of the whole business. The editor of the journal of the United States Strategic Institute, which is run by retired generals and conservative strategists - among them Reagan's own adviser for national security affairs declared that Minuteman vulnerability was a hoax. Technical evidence showed, he wrote, that guidance systems taking Soviet missiles over the Pole could simply not be counted on to hit Ameri-

Opponents of the MX have said this all along but for such a man to say it now and with such force is as shocking as if Reagan economists were to express doubts about private enterprise.

Richard Perle, a key aide to Secretary Weinberger, told me last week that the journal's editor was plain wrong and that vulnerability had been established beyond doubt. But he also said that there had been a "breakthrough" in strategie thinking, a realization that instead of one big dramatic solution to the strategic problem as seen by the administration there had instead to be a "multiplicity of partial solutions." —(ONS)

Internal unrest in Egypt

The wave of political arrests in Egypt is being justified by the government as a crackdown on those fanning religious unrest in the country. However, it is clear that President Sadat has used the operation to retaliate against a broad front of political who foes have been creating trouble for

More than 1,000 persons have been detained in a series of police raids that began last week - the biggest such operation for years. They include Dr. Hilmi Murad, deputy leader of the Socialist Labour Party, famous for his courageous antiestablishment articles in the weekly opposition Al

A few months ago he questioned Mrs. Sadat's right to travel in the United States as a 'representative of the Egyptian government.' Since she held no elective office, Murad argued, she had no right to assume any representative role for herself.

Along with Murad the police have also held Fuad Seraj Eddin, the ageing but popular leader of the banned Wafd Party which, it is believed, would sweep the board in any free elections.

Apart from the politicians, who number about 520, the police also have in custody several senior Christian and Muslim clergymen, among them are Sheikh Abdul Hamid Kiskh, who begins his Friday morning sermons in Cairo with a sarcastic invocation to "be (Sadat) who combines the highest temporal and spiritual power in the land," as well a the militant Coptic Christian bishops of El Balyana and Monufia.

Action against certain religious leaders has been expected for some time, especially after the sectarian riots in Cairo's Zawia al Hamra district. in July. Zawia al Hamra is a slum in the Cairo suburbs and the population is mainly Christian. After a land dispute on July 20, Christian fishermen went on the rampage, killing 60, mostly Mus-

A month later a bomb exploded at a Cairo church wedding, killing 30. The government has blamed both incidents on 'extremist elements' bent on fanning sectarian hatred. Officially inspired leaks went on to suggest that certain extremists were being aided by Egypt's neighbors, such as Libya, who are intent on destabilizing the government in Cairo.

Such pat explanations, for which no evidence has been produced, ignore the deeper causes of the recent violence. For example, the authorities refuse to consider as a factor the prevailing social and economic condition of the country which despite the peace treaty with Israel, show no signs of improvement.

Per capita income is still only$400 a year. Many families in the cities live in slums without fresh water or electricity. These are among the contributory factors that have led to the popularity of revivalist groups like Gamayat Islamiya and Takfir al Higra.

Many Muslims favor prohibition and some Mualim students have been known to attack women students who refuse to wear long, fullsleeve dress at classes. The Copts exasperated by repeated provocations, have reportedly revived an old militant organization of their own, the Umma Coptiya, with which they hope to defend their rights.

What seems to have alarmed Sadat most, apart from the festering sectarian troubles, is that some. of the Islamic groups have made common cause with the opposition political parties. Links have been forged, for example, between the left-wing Unionist Progressive Party and the Muslim Brothers. The main thrust of government strategy, after the recent arrests, will be to find some way of breaking the new unity of the Left and the Muslims. (ONS)

Inky-black fishing cormorants trained by Japanese masters

AARASHIYAMA, Japan - It is a dark summer's night on the Katzuya River, and the inky-black hunting birds called cormorants are fishing for their masters. They dash nut from the boat, straining and diving down in pursuit of their prey, the tasty sea bream which the Japanese call Eigu. Time and again the fish clude their gulp, but with wings flapping and incredible energy, the birds swim out again as the cormorant master, cigarette dangling from his mouth, manages half-adozen birds on rope-reins attached to his

Like the Arabian falconer, the Japanese cormorant master seals the eye lids of a freshly-captured bird to calm it. And like the Arabian falconer, he leads a communal life with his birds during training; while the hawk sits in the Majlis, the cormorant remains on the boat with its master from November until March, the prime training season;

"They even take them out of their cages and that hawks are permitted to retain a portion of their prey, the cormorant master allows his birds to keep the small fish they catch. A strap is fastened around the bird's neck — loos enough to allow it to swallow the small fish it catches but not the big ones.

Cormorants see well at night. This is the only time their masters take them nut fishing. Boatmen bung the sides of their cypress-wood boats to stimulate the birds. Then a torch fire flares brightly in a basket hung out over the water to lure the fish within striking

Long Training Necessary

The training period for the cormorant is far longer than for the falcon which in Arabia is traditionally kept only one season. During training, everything possible is done to reasure the high-spirited cormorants. The Japanese master, who wears a black-lacquered paper hat, short grass skirt and dark kimono, looks like a weird species of fowl himself. This is deliberate: Japanese tradition says the more the master resembles a bird, the more his cormorants will feel at ease, and the more fiercely they will fish for him.

Cormorant masters claim it is cruel to catch fish with a rod; the fish dies slowly with a metal hook in his mouth, Thrashing about in a net spoils the delicacy of its taste. Thus deliverance by cormorant is best both for fish and man. The cormorant's long bill is blunted so it cannot pierce its catch but disgorges it whnle. Seasoned with salt and ginger, the fish is then grilled over a charcoal fire.

Cormorant fishing in all but the nutermost islands of Japan has now been supplanted by modern commercial methods, but the practice continues un the southern shore of Honshu as a tourist attraction. Observing the few remaining cormorant masters at work pro-vides a popular summer night's entertain-ment near Kyoto. Such outings are so festive that one wonders if the Japanese are not seeking escape from cramped living conditions

Due to atom plant repairs, changes, workers were exposed to radiation

WASHINGTON. (WP) - The number of nuclear power plant workers exposed to maximum radiation doses - and the accompanying risk of cancer - soared last year as the nation's atomic power plants underwent more repairs, alternations and maintenance than usual, an environmental group has reported.

The Environmental Policy Institute, a nonprofit Washington-based research group, released a May 26 memorandum of the Nuc-lear Regulatory Commission Radiation Con-trol Section which stated the 68 nperating atomic power plants exposed their work forces to 35 percent more radiation last year than in 1979 even though there was only nne

A record number of 80,200 workers were exposed to radiation last year compared to 04,0/3 in 1979. Average exposure was an all-time high of 791 person-rems reactor, or 53,797 person-rems in total compared to person-rems the year before. Person-rems measure the sum of all exposure to all workers, in the same way that workyears measure the total time put in by all

The exposure rate has nearly quadrupled

since 1969 when it was less than 200 person-rems per reactor. The Surry Nuclear Plants of the Virginia Electric and Power Co. had the second-highest rate of worker exposure among pressurized water reactors, emitting 1,900 person-rems, more than double the national average. The San Onofre, Calif., plant had the highest rate.

The policy group noted that the amount of radiation each individual worker receives has declined substantially since 1969, from 1.03 rems to 0.73 rems per year, well within the NRC's limit of 5 rems. But the total number of workers exposed to radiation has risen dramatically, from 145 at an average plant in 1969 to 1,010 last year, the study report

This is because "nuclear plants have each 'used up' more and more radiation workers" as more get exposed to the maximum radiation regulations allowed early in the year and have to be replaced by other, often temporary, workers.

The Institute said the findings are "extremely serious" in terms of the number of people exposed to radiation, given current research on the effects of low-level doses. If the current level continues for 20 years it means three extra genetic defects per 100 births, the study said.

The findings also rebut yearly explanations from industry that "some particular problem in the reactors has been given a "nne-shot" fix and won't happen again," said Fred Millar of the Institute. "The exposure comes from increased radioactivity permanent nuclear plant components."

William E. Kreger, the NRC's assistant director for radiation protection, to whom the memn was directed, confirmed that assertion in part. "A slowly increasing amount of radiation inside the primary (reactor cooling) sys-tem was noted in the mld 1970s," he said. Research traced it to corrosion materials, and new kinds of water chemistry are beginning to deal with the problem, he said.

"We now think it will not continue to built at this rate" and that 1980 and 1981 may be the peak exposure years, Kreger continued.

Dave Harward, environmental projects manager at the Atomic Industrial Forum, the industry trade association, blamed the highradiation nutput on changes required in the wake of the accident at Three Mile Island. Some of the overall rise from 1969, he said, results from aging plants. "When a plant is new it doesn't require as much maintenance," he said.

Victim of aging disease Desire to be 'normal boy' takes Fransie Geringer to Disneyland

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - Fransie Geringer, the bald, 8-year-old boy inflicted with a rare aging disease, has been granted the dream of his compressed lifetime - to meet Pinocchio.

Fransie's struggle with progeria, a fatal ill-ness that ages the body 10 times faster than normal, touched America's heart when a story about his plight was published in August. Within 10 days, more than enough money had been raised to fly the child, his parents, and 10-year-old brother. Paul. to both Disneyland in Anahelm, California, and Disneyworld in Orlando, Florida.

Guatemalans break relations with U.K.

Guatemala broke off consular relations with Britain, it was officially announced here. The announcement Monday came two weeks before Britain grants independence to its Central American colony of Belize after years of wrangling with Guatemala over territorial rights.

A statement by presidential spokesman Carlos Toledo Vielman said the Guatemala government would not allow any kind of commercial ties to continue hetween Guatemala and Belize. Toledo Vielman told reporters the decision had been taken because Britain was granting Belize "unilateral? independence.

He said the government had ordered its two consulates in Belize and all British consulates in Guatemala to close, "Guatemala, as of today, will not allow any type of relation or commercial ties ... with Belize," he said. Guatemala, Britain and Belize signed a

WHO report says

PARIS, Sept. 8 (AFP) - Health care must be treated as an integral part of development. as no development project can succeed if workers are unfit and undernourished, the World Health Organizartion (WHO) said

There are two doctors per thousand inhabitants in industrialized countries, while the ratio in the poorest nations is one doctor. per 170,277, according to a WHO report to the first United Nations conference here on the world's 31 least developed countries

Among other stark statistics in the report, which urgently recommends that health care be treated as inseparable from economic development, is that military spending in some of the 31 poorest countries is more than three times higher in per capita terms than spending on health.

Malnutrition, the report noted, "is one of the chief reasons for the extremely high infant juvenile mortality rate" in the least developed countries. The LDCs childmortality ratio is 160 per thousand, compared to 94 per thousand in the developing countries, and 19 per thousand in the industrialized world.

The report pointed out that the average per capita food intake in the least developed countries is 2,000 calories a day, compared with 2,400 calories in the developing countries and 3,400 in the industrialized coun-

Amccording to WHO estimates; $164,000 million will be needed to cover the elementary health needs of the 280 millions in the least developed countries between now and the close of the century. "Assuming that the LDC's are themselves able to cover 80 persituation, contributions required from mu tilateral and bilateral sources would be $32,700 million, the report said.

"Health is a prerequisite in every national development program," the report said, its importance was too often underestimated or overlooked by the decision-makers, whereas economic goals would never be achieved unless the work force was healthy.

Shaanxi, was hit in recent weeks not only by flooding from the Yangtse, but from China's second largest water course, the Yellow River. An initial toll put the dead there at 764, with another 5,000 injured. But Chinese television and newspapers said over 700,000 persons were still encircled by the floods in the southeast of the province—the most seriously affected region.

Hubei province, which borders both Sichuan and Shaanxi, was less affected by the first Yangtse floods in July. Only material losses were recorded and the buge Gezhnuba dam, China's largest, stood up to the flood

The second wave of floods in August appears to have claimed only 10 lives in Hubei so far. After being parched by severe drought for a year, the province is oow swamped by floods brought on by torrential

Soviets said uncooperative with allies in World War II

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP) - Military nformation from the Soviet Union was so parse during World War II that Britain, its ally, was forced to rely on decoded German pattle messages to discover the positions of he Red Army, according to a new war his-.ory published Wednesday.

British security chiefs were "constantly bombarded" by the Soviets with requests for allied war plans and estimates of German strength, the history says, but in return, Moslow failed to supply regular intelligence reports or details of any captured enemy air-

Somalia deaths of infants blamed on superstition

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania, Sept. 8 (AP) - Superstitious belief that babies grow "plastic Teeth" has recently led to the deaths of at least 48 infants | in north em Tanzania's Tanga reginn.

Superstition and witchcraft are known to abound in the mountains of Tanga where, according to the official Tanzania News Ageocy, the belief has spread that a haby's first teeth are made of plastic and if not removed will lead to death from

S.M. Daraja, Tanga reginnal health nfficer, said that bogus doctors using crude instruments are extracting soft, immature teeth nut of babies' gums for fees ranging up to $15." Mnst of the children get infected, the gums get septic, some get tetanus and many bleed to death," Daraja said.

So far, 48 children under noe year nf age bave died in government hospitals where they were brought after having their teeth removed in the bush Authorities say the oumber of fatalities is probably much higher since most sick children are not brought to hospitals.

Daraja accused the self-proclaimed doctors of spreading the belief in "plastic teeth." "They are doing it only for money," he said. "It's quite normal for a teething baby to experience diarrbea. Then these people come along and tell the mother that the bahy is going to die unless the plastic teeth are pulled out."

W. Indians clash with U.K. police

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP) - As the sun set Monday over the troubled Brixton district of south London, there was yet another clash between West Indian blacks and the police.

The scene, as described by The Guardian newspaper: "Deputy assistant commissioner Leslie Walker wanted to hurl the first missile. Howard Chambers, a handyman, knocked him for six. The police toiled ... But, as twilight fell, they were beset with round objects thrown with extraordinary speed and

But when the test was finished, there were broad smiles and bands were shaken all around, and both sides declared the clash won by the West Indians — a success.

"Cricket is fun," declared Lord Scarman, completely giving away the game "That's what burnan relations are about, not tragedy and catastrophe all the time,"

Scarman is heading a government inquiry into the far more serious riots in Brixton in April and July of this year in which dozens of people were hurt, many more arrested and hundreds of pounds of damage was done.

West Indian blacks, who predominate in Brixton, have repeatedly charged the mostly white police force of fueling antagonism in the slums by harassing youngsters with stopand-search tactics. Some of the bitterest attacks have come during Scarman's hearings.

In response, police officials have gone out of their way in recent weeks to establish contact with the community.

It was the fourth in a series of matches begun in 1971. That one and the next in 1972 were won hy the blacks. The following year, the Brixton police cricket took its revenge. Monday's match was won by the West

Seeking compromise formula

Namibia group to meet at U.N.

LONDON, Sept. 8 (R) -- Western officials bave voiced guarded optimism following U.S. talks with South Africa oo Namibia (Southwest Africa) hut said there was no breakthrough in sight. Diplomats close to a five-nation "contact group," which is seeking a compromise formula to settle Namibia's future, cautioned there was "still a long way to go" in backstage talks.

They appeared to be backing off slightly from statements by U.S. and European officials suggesting major progress had been achieved in U.S. discussions with South Africa. While encouraging progress had been made, there was "oo reason in annicipate a huge leap forward," the diplomats said.

Foreign ministers of the contact group countries - the United States, Britain, Canada, France and West Germany - will meet at the United Nations in New York in two weeks. U.S. Secretary of State Alexander Haig said in an interview published in New York Saturday that U.S. mediators had made "considerable progress" in the five-monthlong talk with Pretoria.

This view was echoed by European Commnn Market fnreign mioisters after a weekend meeting near London, when a spokesman reported that "useful progress bas been made in recent days." Contact group officials said the United States had established that South Africa was still interested in finding a formula that would enable it to end its 65-year rule in the former

Deputy Foreign Minister Ree Joog-Mnk. in an interview with the weekly news magazine Der Spiegel, said that the only way of reuniting North and South Kurea was to form a confederation without any foreign interfer-

The minister was interviewed in Munich by Professor Gottfried-Karl Kindermann, director of the International Political Seminar at Munich University, oo the possibilities nf Knrean reunification.

He said: "The confederation which we are thinking about envisages the firming of a joint national assembly with equal North and South representation. The two differing political systems in each country will remain initially." He said that the fact that South Knrea had a larger population "has no importance, as the task of the future assembly is to promnte economic conperation between the twn parts of the country in a peaceful way."

The minister said that other tasks would be tn develop joint foreign and military policies. The naly obstacle preventing the formation of this new confederation was the presence of U.S. troops in Snuth Korea, he said.

He considered that a normalization agreement between North Knrea and the United States on the Washington-Pekiog mndel was not a possibility. One solution, he said, was to transform the 1953 armistice agreement into a peace treaty. Ree was doubtful of building tripartite negotiations between representatives of the twn Koreas and the United States. because inter-Korean talks "are already very tional safeguards for Namihia's 110,000 whites and other minnrity groups, the officials said, but more contacts with Pretoria were needed. The proposals still had to be discussed with black African neighboring states and with the Southwest Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), which has been fighting a guerrilla war agains: South Africa.

The South Africans also appeared to accept a U.N. peacekeeping presence in Namibia during a post-independence transitinnal period, the nfficials said. A U.N.sponsored conference on self-rule arrangements collapsed in Geneva last January when South Africa accused the United Nations of bias in favor of SWAPO.

The contact group officials said the Reagan administration was "reasonably confident of keeping South Africa oo board" in continuing efforts to find an acceptable compromise formula. But there had been no firm commitments, and it was oot yet clear whether the Western Foreign ministers, at their meeting on Sept. 24, would be ready to present concèrete proposals.

African experts of the five Western nations will hold further discussions before the foreign ministers meet. The diplumats said there had been nn major developments on the Namibia issue since South Africa seot troops into neighboring Angola two weeks ago to hit SWAPO guerrilla bases. The minister gave no other details of the oil finds, but said Monday the deposits in Assam apparently were of "small quantitation".

Meanwhile, the ruling lower house passed a bill to oationalize three subsidiaries of the Burmah Oil Corporation of Britain -Oil India Limited, Assam Oil Company

The bill, which then went before the uppper house, provides that the Indian government pay 216 million rupees ($24 million) at the current exchange rate) to Burmah for the takeover of the three companies. Some opposition members in the lower house complained that the com-pensation to Burman was "excessive."

Japanese bow to Soviet terms

TOKYO, Sept. 8(AFP) - The Japanese government has bowed to Soviet financial terms in connection with a steel plate export contract, an official of the ministry of international trade and industry (MITI) said Tues-

The contract is for the supply of 300,000 tons of steel plate. The official said the Japanese supplier companies were obliged to grant an interst rate of 7.25 percent for five-year credit. During negotiations in Moscow last week, a team representing Nippon Steel (the world's number one steel firm) and five other Japanese producers suggested 7.75 percent, against 6.85 percent for a contract last year. But the Soviet side insisted that the interest rate be aligned with that of the Europeans.

Under local voting rules Mayor Koch, although a Democrat, is allowed to run in the Republican primary if he has significant Repoblican support to put him in the ballot. Four of the city's five borough Republicao leaders endorsed the mayor.

The ceremony took place Monday at Gracie Mansion, the mayor's official residence, as leaders of the American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations (AFL-CIO) stepped up attacks on the president for alleged insensitivity to workers.

Earlier, about 100,000 workers marched up Fifth Avenue in the city's first Labor Day parade for 13 years. The parade was led hy AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland, who has bitterly criticized Reagan's order dismissing 12,000 members of the Professiooal Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO) after an illegal strike last month.

President Reagan had not been invited to take part in the Labor Day parade. A large contingeot of PATCO members standing near Gracie Mansion booed and hissed as the president left after the ceremony to return to Washington. The symbolic cheque was part of a $193 hillion federal commitment to help the city build a controversial 4.2-mile motorway along the Hudson River. The first instalment of $85 million will be given to New York when land for the project is purchased.

The Western project, as the scheme is known, has been opposed for years hy powerful group and individuals on environmental grounds. Koch opposed the scheme until he was assured of extra money for New York's massive rapid transition system. Recalling the nontroversy over the motorway. President Reagan said the name Westway had become a codeword for a bureaucracy strangling in its own regulations.

But he said it would provide tens of thousands of jobs for the unemployed

"The key to everything we are trying to accomplish is...johs, jobs and more jobs," he said. "Promises and programs, subsidies and studies, welfare and make-work have all been tried hy well-meaning individuals. But any worker knows that a job is the best social progress there is.'

AFL-CIO President Kirkland renewed his attack on the president Monday over the firing of the PATCO strikers. In an article in the Washington Post, he asked why the Reagan administration sympathized with strikes by Polish workers against their government yet dealt harshly with Americans striking against their own government.

As anti-inflationary step

Delors rules out price curbs

PARIS, Sept. 8 (AFP) - Economy Minister Jacques Delors has said he is determined that price fixing will not be instituted as an anti-inflation measure in France — despite a poll indicating that most French people want

About 75 percent of the French would like the complex price-fixing system that was in effect for 30 years but progressively abandoned by the government of former President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, a poll in the newspaper Journal du Dimanche said Monday. But Delors said that he was refusing to resort to administrative measures in most cases, and added: "You don't lower the fever hy breaking the thermometer." He maintaided that prices must be kept down through ent petition.

Intlation was 1.7 percent July alone, and prices have risen 8.4 percent since the beginning of the year. A particular sore point has been the consumer organizations' indictment of prices increases for school supplies this year, put at 30 percent for some articles. Officials have predicted that the general increase for 1981 will be about 13.5 percent - compared to 13.4 percent last year, but it would eventually work out to be much higher if inflation keeps rising at the July rate. Delors places responsibility for the current inflation on the policies of the previous government, although conservative critics have charged that his government's social expenditures will prove inflationary.

Delors is still reserving the right to use controls against excessive price increases, and authorities have takeo action against some firms that have tried to raise prices by as much as 100 percent in a year. In another development, French Bankers hit back at Delors who criticized them last week. The Association of French Banks (AFB) said "the hanking profession considers that it has never ceased to face its economic and social responsibilities and that it has always acted in the general interest." It said in a communique that this reaction by the organization of French nationalized and private banks was decided unanimously by the AFB's council.

At their monthly meeting Monday, Pierre Ledoux, their president, reported that Thursday he informed the minister of economy of the banks' reactions to his statement on their attitude in the present circumstances. Delors had said that he was "disgusted by the attitude of the banks." He reproached them for oot passing on lower interest rates to firms quickly enough.

In the plenary session, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) promised to conduce its financial and technical assistance to the LDCs, which are all members of the fund except for the tiny Himalayan kingdom of. Bbutan. But IMF resources are limited, fund representative A.F. Muhammad Warned. Despite increased aid to the LDCs, they have been hard hit be global economic problems, including a surge in energy prices, a setback in the growth of world trade, a fall in LDCs export prices, and "considerable swings in the exchange rates of their major partners and a sharp rise in the cost of inter-national borrowing," Muhammad explained. As a result, their current account deficit mushroomed to $7 billion last year or more than 10 percent of their gross national product, he

Earlier, Romania said that it was up to all states to mobilize their resources to overcome underdevelopment and warned against aid to the LDCs decreasing assistance to other developing countries.

The statement appeared to conflict with the Soviet Union's, which placed the blame for the current desperate plight facing the poorest countries on imperialists, multipational corporations and former colonialist

At a plenary session late Monday night, Uruguay warned that the problems of the LDCs must not get lost under the weight of global economic issues. There must be a real increase in aid, not just a reshuffling of the current aid pie, Enrique Etcheverry Sorling of Uruguay said.

Meanwhile, Equatorial Guinea said that there must be an immediate doubling of international aid so that development goals can be met before it is too late. While Guinea is not now considered an LDC, "the government is sure it will eventually be included." said the country's representative, Eulogio Oyo Riquese.

assembly opened its autumn session Tuesday with the Socialist majority determined to push through a program of social, economic and political reforms.

Depudes are due to spend some 500 hours until Dec. 20 dehaong and voting on a sweeping program of reforms prepared by the Socialists, who this year broke 23 years of conservative rule - winning the presidency in May and an absolute majority in the assembly a month later.

The first month will cover voting new rights for an estimated three million immigrants, abolishing the death penalty, and curbing the powers of the central government by creading popularly elected regional councils.

Proposals for breaking the state monopoly on hroadcasting by legalizing private local radio stations will also be discussed. The assembly will tackle its two most difficult tasks in October - nationalizing major industries and hanks and holding a full debate on the country's ambitious nuclear program. The Socialist Party is so divided over the

for Marconi

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AFP) - The British government Thesday decided in principle to turn to British industry for a 560 millionpound ($1 billion) order to heavy torpedoes.

Some informed sources said that the defense ministry had wanted to place orders with an American firm, Gould Incorporated, for torpedoes originally developed for the

After a meeting of the ministerial commit-tee charged with defense matters, officials announced that the order would got to the British firm Marconi. The company has been developing a new torpedo in collaboration with the Royal Navy. In the hattle before the decision, Marconi and its parent company General Electric said that the refusal to adopt the British weapon would mean the loss of 5,000 jobs in Britain and the immediate closing of a factory built specially for the torpedo's manufacture. Prime Minister Margarel Thatcher personally presided at the factory's inauguaracon last April.

The two companies say that the Marconi torpedo, known as the MSDS model 7525, is faster and more accurate that then American equivalent, the ADCAP type 48. The Marconi model has been clocked at 130 kilometers (78 miles) per hour during tests, making it the fastest in the world. It was believed that its adoption by the Briosh navy would probably lead to major orders from abroad.

The American firm had proposed to eliminate the hard currency requirement for any British order of its torpedoes by making 35 percent of the parts in Britain - where Gould would open a shop employing 200 persons — and hy huying various British instruments and parts for the construction of other armaments in the United States. The defense ministry, obliged to tighten its beit for hudgetary reasons, was reportedly impressed by the fact that the adoption of the cheaper U.S. model would have saved £100 million ($180 million). A purchase from Gould Incorporated would also bave encouraged American purchases of Britain's sting ray light torpedo and a new anti-submarine radar. The ministerial committee did not publicly defend its choice.

Dollar rates forge ahead

By J.H. Hammond

JEDDAH, Sept. 8 - The dollar continued to strengthen and hold its ground Tuesday. This is despite the fact that Eurodollar rates eased by about 1/8 percent Tuesday in face of uncertainties on the money markets on how dollar interest rates would open on Tuesday night in New York.

The absence of New York trading Monday did not dampen the market's demand for the American currency and most dealers were surprised that institutions were willing to take such dollar positions again.

On the local markets Tuesday, rival deposit rates fluctuated on early morning trading, but had firmed by close of husiness. The coming Haji holidays were forcing local banks to juggle around with maturity dates that did not fall in pre-specified regular tenor periods.

The Tuesday European markets saw the Eurodollar deposits fall by about 1/8 percent in most tenors. One-month deposit was quoted at 17 % - 18 percent. It would seem that those institutions that had dealt in Eurodollars out of the Gulf on Saturday and Sunday had their gamble pay off, for they had lowered their rates to above levels on the expectation of Eurodollar deposit falls. The dollar deposit easing did not deter the exchange markets, however, and the dollar advanced on some currency front, particularly the sterling.

The British currency lost more than three cents to be quoted at 1.8010 Tuesday compared to 1.8297 on early Monday trading. This drop has been triggered by markets noting an easing of short-term sterling interest rates as well as worries about British balance of payments problems in the future due to lack of support of oil revenues. The financial markets were widely quoting Tuesday's Arab News interview with the Kingdom's Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, in which the minister said that oil prices must be held at present levels for long periods of time or must come down in face of the present oil glut. The British currency was immediately affected since il has been termed a "petro-currency" with the discovery of North Sea oil.

In a other currency news, the German mark held steady 31 2.4270 levels and it was a similar situation for the Swiss franc. The yen weakened to 232.00 levels, hut heavy importer huying of yen brought the level down later Tuesday. The French currency fell back to 5.8210, but some sizeable French central Bank support helped the level back to 5.8170 by late afternoon.

On the local markets, riyal spot rates against the dollar opened at a fairly high level of 3.4210-20 and continued at such trading levels for most of the day. This is the highest price yet for the spot rival since two weeks ago. On the local money markets, rival deposit rates fluctuated erratically in the short dates— taking one-week rates to 12 — 13 ½ percent, but with longer fixed lenor periods firming. The one-year rate was quoted at 16 - 16 1/2 percent and 16 1/8 - 16 % percent, while the one and two month deposits were quoted at 15 - 15 1/2

TOKYO, Sepi. 8 (R) — Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki's drive to reform state finances received a boost Tuesday with an announcement that the increase in next year's budget would be the lowest since World War II.

Suzuki has stressed repeatedly that he is staking his political career after just over one year in office on moves toward halancing the budget without politically unpopular tax increases.

Finance Minister Michio Watanabe told the cahinet Tuesday that requests submitted by government agencies for the 1982 financial year budget totaled 49,470 billion yen ($215 hillion) a 5.7 percent increase from the current financial year, ending next March, a ministry spokesman said.

Johansson of Sweden and East German Metschuk won the coveted I 00 meters gold medals as the powerful Soviet Union squad predictably took the lead in the medals table at the European Swimming Championships here Monday.

Johansson, an 18-year-old student who had turned down offers of an American university scholarship, surprised East Germany's Olympie champion Jorge Woithe with a powerful win in the men's freestyle sprint. The young Swede shattered his national record twice in the day but his 50.55 seconds winning time left Woithe's European record of 50.14 seconds intact.

Metschuk, who will be I g at the end of this month, was in total command of the women's sprint final, winning easily in 55.74 seconds to add the European gold to the Olympic silver she won in Moscow.

She did not have to produce the speed she showed at Moscow to beat teammate Birgit Meineke, who took second in 56.06, while Conny Van Bentun delighted the Dutch team ahead of Sweden's Agneta Eriksson.

Olympic champions won four gold medals, with Robertas Zhulpa of the Soviet Union taking the men's 200 meter breastroke in 2:15:17.

Petra Schneider of East Germany dominated the women's 400 meters individual medley, winning by more than six seconds from teammate Ute Gewiniger and the Soviet men emerged winners of the 4x200 meters relay after a tremendous battle with West Germany.

In the diving pool another Olympic champion, Alexander Portnoy of the Soviet Union. produced a sparkling display on the threemeter Springboard to edge out fellow-Russian Seroei Kuzmin and Niki Stojkovic of Austria.

At the end of the first day of swimming and the midpoint in the diving competition, the Soviet Union led with four gold, three silver and one hronze. The East Germans were second with three gold, three silver and one bronze, while the Swedes were juhilant with Johnnsson's gold and the relay.

Stiffer fines in the offing

FLUSHING MEADOW, Sept. 8 (AFP) -Stiffer fines against troublesome players and increased powers allowing umpires to disqualify a player in extreme circumstances are among proposed changes on the Grand Prix Tennis circuit for next year.

The changes are part of a new look to the Grand Prix to combat the threat from the rival World Championship of Tennis (WCT) organized by millionaire Texan

President of the International Tennis Federation (FIT) Philippe Chatrier said here that WCT represented a danger for tennis but would have to be fought by strengthening and improving the Grand Prix structure.

Cardinals Bonds enables

NEW YORK, Sept. 8 (AP) - Bobby Bonds drove in five runs with two home runs and Doug Bird tossed a three-hitter to pace the Chicago Cubs to an 10-0 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals Monday.

The 35-year-old Bonds got his first homer with Pat Tabler on base in the second innings off right-hander Lary Sorensen, 7-6, giving the Cubs a 4-0 lead. The second homer, a three-run shot, was in the sixth.

Bird, 4-2, walked one and struck out three. Tommy Herr's leadoff single in the first, Keith Hernandez's one-out double in the fourth and Orlando Sanchez's single in the ninth were the only St. Louis hits. Bill Buckner had hits for the Cubs, including two RBI singles.

In American League afternoon games, Graig Nettles slammed two home runs and Ron Guidry won his 10th game to lead the

New York Yankees to a 4-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers. Guidry, 10-3 overall and 5-0 in the second season, pitched a nohitter through 5 1-3 innings before Robin Yount hit his ninth homer of the season.

John Castino's two-run double in the fourth inning backed a combined eight-hit shutout by Darrell Jackson and Doug Corbett to carry the Minnesota Twins to a 4-0 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays. It was the first victory by an American League west team over an AL east team since Friday, including 15 straight losses Saturday and

Tom Paciorek hlasted a three-run home run and Casey Parsons and Paul Serna both hit their first major league homers to lift the Seattle Mariners to an 9-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox, their 10th loss in 11

Mike Norris pitched a seven-hitter for his first victory since Aug. 11 as the Oakland A's beat the Texas Rangers 2-1. The A's victory came before a crowd of 36,393, which gave them a new single-season attendance record of 1,096,480 despite the loss of 22 home dates during the players' strike.

In American League night action, a grand slam home run hy Eddie Murray, Baltimore's second in two games, powered the Orioles to an 9-2 victory over Cleveland as Jim Palmer and Tippy Matinez combined to check the Indians on four hits.

Lou Whitaker tripled home AL Cowens in the eighth innings to support the two-hit pitching of Jack Morris as the Detroit Tigets defeated the Boston Red Sox 3-1.

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AFP) - Geoff Cook. the Northants captain, and the young Surrey wicket-keeper Jack Richards, are the only uncapped players in the England party Lanka this winter.

But the major surprise is the recall of Graham Dilley, the young Kent fast bowler - "a risk" according to the chairman of the selectors, Alec Bedser.

Dilley, 22, pulled out of the Edgbaston Test against Australia with a shoulder injury and suffered such a loss of form that he has been playing second XI cricket ever since.

Bedser said Tuesday morning: "We had a lot of discussion about it, but thought he should go because he is the quickest we have got. "It's a form risk not an injury risk, but he took 14 wiekets in 98 overs against the Australians this summer, an excellent striking rate in Test cricket".

Bedser added: "We thought he could come good - it has proved successful in India in the past if you can get someone to bowl fast, eventually decided that we should take what we though were the best wicketkeepers."

but he have taken a risk." Bedser admitted that the 23-year-old Richards was rather fortunate to be accompanying Bob Taylor as the second wicketkeeper, ahead of David Bairstow of Yorkshire. "Bairstow came very close, hut it was

That decision was taken after Fletcher had put his point of view, and Bedser said: "Keith that. On his last tour to India there was just not enough work for the third spinner. The six specialist batsmen are: Chris

Cook, Graham Gooch and David Gower. Cook has been given the extra batting place ahead of Paul Parker and Wayne Larkins, both of whom failed at the Oval. The selectors were impressed by Cook's record of 1.I 51 runs this summer at an average of 43.4, and Saturday's 117 in the Natwest trophy final helped clinch his place.

John Emburey picked himself for one of the spinner's paces but Bedser agreed that Derek Underwood, who last played for England at Lord's against the West Indies last summer fought off competition from uncapped Eddie Hemmings and experienced Philip Edmonds.

England have also recalled a fast bowler from the past John Lever who, like Underwood, made his last appearance against the West Indians. He will accompany Dilley, tour vice captain, Boh Willis, and youngster, Paul Allot, who made his debut at Old Trafford. Bedser said: "Lever's fitness record had a lot of bearing on his selection he does not break down. Anyway he is a good tourist and has had reasonable season. Bedser added that Chris Old and Mike Hendrick were ruled out by their poor fitness record for England.

The squad is: Batsmen: Keith Fletch, (Essex, captain), Geoff Boycott (Yorkshire). Geoff Cook (Northamptonshire), Mike Gatting (Middlesex), Graham Gooch (Essex), David Gower (Leicestershire), Chris Tavare (Kent), Alfrounder: Ian Botham (Sometime), Wicketkeepers, Bob Taylor (Darbythire), Jack Richards (Surrey), Fast bowlers: Fast Allott (Lancashire), Graham Dilley (Kent), John Lever (Essex), Bob Willis Warwick shire, vice-captain), Slow bowlers John Emburey (Middlesex), Derek Underwood (Kent). Jack Richards Hoddle gets another chance

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AFP) — England, as expected, have picked a team as similar as possible to the one which beat Hungary for their vital World Cup qualifying match against Norway in Oslo on Wednesday.

Dave Watson, Steve Coppell and Trevor Brooking are injured, and so manager Ron Greenwood has called in Russell Osman, Trevor Francis and Glenn Hoddle. Ray Clemence keeps his place, despite the shock of letting in ten goals since his transfer from Liverpool to Tottenham. Osman, 22, wins his fifth cap, as Watson's stand-in, and may benefit from playing alongside his club captain Mick Mills. Greenwood commented: "injuries mean we have had to make the changes hut the shape and halance of the team is still there and there are options too. Glenn gives us the same type of quality in midfield as Trevor Brooking and it is nice to have Trevor Francis back." Brooking's injury and Ray Wilkins' poor early season form gives Hoddle his eighth cap. and another chance to re-establish himself in the England midfield.

The Tottenham 23-year-old, who decided against trying his luck abroad and re-signed for Spurs this summer, has looked impressive at times in his international shirt but has never been able to command a regular place. Manager Greenwood declined to be critical of the pitch at the Stadium following a hrief training session there Tuesday morning. Springboks win WHANGAREI, New Zealand, Sept. 8 (R) - South Africa's Rugby Union Springboks cemented their unbeaten record in provincial 19-10 victory over North Auckland at Okara Park Tuesday. But as a final huildup to Saturday's crucial third Test against New Zealand, the match was a disaster. In the most volatile encounter of the tour so far, three Springboks went off the field for medical attention and others were left nursing minor cuts and bruises.

marches on their tour of New zealand with a

The surface appeared humpy under grass several inches long hut Greenwood said "we have worked on it and found it satisfactory. They will be cutting the grass so it should be fine for the match.

The team: Clemence, Neal, Mills, Thompson, Osman, Robson, Keegan, Francis, Mariner, Hoddle and McDermott.

Meanwhile, Steve Mackenzie once British football's costliest teenager when Malcolm Allison took him to Manchester City, is one of three uncapped players in the England Under-21 team to meet Norway in a friendly match at Oslo on Tuesday.

The other two newcomers with MacKenzie, who now play for West Bromich Albion are Aston Villa full-back Colin Gibson and Manchester City center-half Tommy Caton.

The England team is: Bailey (United), Fenwick (Rangers), Gibson (Villa), Mack-enzie (Bromwich Elhion), Duxhury (United), Caton (City), Mills (Forest), Fashanu (Forest), Thompson (Coventry), Heath (Stoke), Proctor (Forest).

Belgians out to avenge defeat BRUSSELS, Sept. 8 (R) - Belgium meet

France here Wednesday in a crucial World Soccer Cup match which could decide which of them qualifies for next year's finals in

After a humbling 3-2 defeat by a brilliant French display in Paris last April, Belgian manager Guy Thys has promised that his "Red Devils" will exact revenge in a packed Heysel Stadium. The Belgian defeat in France was only their second in the past ten matches, and the first since West Germany beat them 2-1 in Rome last year in the finals of the European Championship.

French manager Michel Hidalgo is striving to revive his team after recent defeats in friendly matches against Brazil and West German cluh Stuttgart. He has made several changes, notably the dropping of established goalkeeper Dominique Dropsy, Marius Tresor of Bordeaux, so often a pillar of the French defence, is also out.

Hidalgo will be relying on the exquisite skills and wide experience of Michel Platini in midfield to open up the right Belgian defence: "We've come here to attack" Hidalgo declared Tuesday. Belgium are depending largely on the team which surprised the world by reaching the European finals. But Eric Gerets, a right back who often looks more like a right winger is injured, and injury may also force out midfielder Rene Vandereycken.

Meanwhile, Denmark will have to work hard here if they are to block Yuguelavia's march toward the 1982 Finals.

Denmark proved their battle last June by beating top-ranked Italy 3-1 in another. European Group five match. But even if the Danes win Wednesday their chance of carping a place in the finals will be slim.

Yugoslavia will be hungry for victory here: following their embarrassing defeat, on Saturday by Dinamo Zagreb in a warn-up match. But they would be ill advised to be 100? confident about victory over the Danes, whom they defeated only 2-1 at home a year

'i ugovlavia have chalked up two other wins in the Group, 5-1 over Greece and 5-0 in Luxembourg. Their sole defeat was by Italy. to whom they lost 2-0 in an away match. Neither team is expected to be announced until shortly before the kick-off (1730)

In Prague a draw against Czechoslovakia here Wednesday could be enough to see

Wales leads European qualifying Group Three with nine points from five matches, but are under pressure from second-placed Czechoslovakia, with one loss, and the points but have two games in the standard home. The other two trains in the standard home. Iceland and Turkey, are out of the fire

Much depends on the crowd, Jock Stein says

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AFP) - Jock Stein Tuesday urged Scotland's "most powerful ally", their loyal supporters, to cheer their team toward a place in the World Cup final when Scotland meets Sweden in a qualifying match at Hampden Park Wednesday night.

The Scotland manager, who has made three changes from the side which beat England at Wemhley in May, said: "The crowd is unquestionably our most powerful ally. There will be over $0,000 at Hampden and 1 hope they stay with us all the way and encourage the team, "In my mind this will be absolutely vital because I am sure Sweden will try to frustrate us and turn the crowd against us.".

Stein hrings hack Liverpool teammates Kenny Dalglish and Alan Hansen, along with John Wark of Ipswich, All of whom were unavailable for the home internationals because of club commitments in European competition. Dalglish replaces the injured Steve Archibald of Tottenham which allows him to link up with Joe Jordan in a menacing twir. spearhead. Hansen comes in for Willie Miller, who has suffered a loss of form with Aberdeen. Wark, who began the season with goals on each of the first two Saturdays of the league program, takes over from Ray Stewart of West Ham and has been encouraged by Stein to play his usual club role against the Swedes. But there is no place on the team for Wolves striker, Andy Gray, and Aberdeen's midfield player, Gordon Strachan, who missed most of last season because of injury. Stein said: "It was expecting a lot of as this. I think he was probably capable of doing a joh for us hut this is no time to take chances considering how long he had been

The Scots boss said he included Davie Provan, the Celtic winger, as he has been "playing" at the moment. He added: "We also need a player of Hansen's ability and accurate passing from the back."

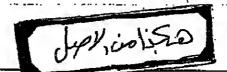

The team; Rough (Partick Thistle). McGrain (Celtie), F. Gray (Leeds United), Wark (Ipswich), McLeish (Aberdeen), Hansen (Liverpool), Provan (Celtic). Dalglish (Liverpool), Jordan (A.C., Milan), Hatford (Everton). Robertson (Nottingham Forest). Subs: Thomson (St. Mirran), Stewart (West Ham), Miller (Aberdeen), Straehnn (Aberdeen), A. Gray (Wolverhampton).

Strachan to come back in a game as important

GDANSK, Poland, Sept. 8 (Agencies) — The national congress of the Solidarity free trade union, in an overwhelming display of unity, Tuesday threatened to boycott a government-sanctioned law on shop-floor democracy if passed over union objections by the nation's parliament.

The resolution, adopted by show of hands of the 892 delegates attending the congress, says passing the government versions of worker self-management reforms could spark new tensions and conflict. The bill would leave the Communist Party in control of key appointments and major decisions.

The resolution asked the parliament to conduct a national referendum to determine the kind of worker control in the state sector and said Solidarity would hold one itself if parliament failed to do so. With the adoption of the resolution on worker self-management, the nnion appeared headed for possible confrontation with the Communist government over the issue. The Communist Party last week charged Solidarity sought power through its economic reform proposals which seek greater autonomy for workers to hire and fire directors and make production decisions than the government or party is willing to give. The battle between Solidarity and the Communists over worker self-management lies at the heart of the Polish revolution. Communist surrender would guarantee Solidarity effective control of the economy and mark a further erosion of the power of the ruling party. The Communist authorities does not suggest any constructive program," said the dispatch printed in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia. The Tass report appeared to label the entire leadership of Solidarity as a "right-wing" opposition to the Warsaw government. Previous

Soviet accounts have sometimes implied that right-wingers were not the dominant segment in Solidarity.

The report accused Solidarity's "right-have vowed to retain overall control of key appointments and of major industrial policy.

The Solidarity resolution said the authorities were afraid of genuine selfgovernment and wanted to deprive workers of the right to run their enterprises, especially over hiring and firing managers. It said the party was trying to perpetuate its "egotistical interests" and was violating the Polish constitution, which said that rights in the Polish People's Republic were an expression of the will and interests of the working people.

The resolution said the struggle for worker self-government would be conducted by all available means and that society would have to act on its own if parliament did not cooper-

The congress also expressed support for free trade union organizers in other Eastern European countries. The delegates to the union's first national conference stated that Solidarity, the first independent labor federation in the Soviet bloc was an "authentie ... representative of the working people .. contrary to the lies being spread in your conntries."

The resolution lists all the nations in the Soviet bloc, including the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and East Germany which. have been harshly critical of Solidarity during its first year of existence.

Solidarity's increasingly political stand drew a sharp rebuke Tuesday from the Polish Army newspaper Zolnierz Wolnosci, which said the union was using the issue of worker self-management as a springboard to a takcover of power.

The union's message to fellow workers in the East bloc was without precedent. It said: "Delegates to the first Solidarity congress being held in Gdansk convey greetings and words of support to workers in Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, the German Democratic Republic, Hungary, Romania and the Soviet Union."

"As the first independent trade union in our postwar history, we are deeply linked by our common fate," the message went on. "We assure you that, despite the lies about us being disseminated in your countries, we are tion of workers which emerged from worker

"Our aim is to struggle for better living standards for all working people. We support those of you who have resolved to enter the difficult road of struggle for a free union. We believe that your delegates and ours will soon meet to exchange their union experiences."

In another resolution the congress instructed Solidarity's local branches to "resort to all possible means" to counter the refusal by the authorities to allow civilian employees of the defense and interior ministries to belong to the union.

Warsaw Pact ministers arrive to see maneuvers

MOSCOW, Sept. 8 (R) — The defense ministers of all the East European Warsaw Pact states, Cuba, and Vietnam have arrived in the Soviet Union to watch large-scale military maneuvers close to the Polish border, the Tass news agency said Tuesday. Among those present was Polish Prime Minister Wojciech Jaruzelski, who holds the defense portfolio in the Warsaw government, according to the report. Tass gave no indication of when the ministers arrived, saying only that they had been invited by Soviet defense Minister Dmitri Ustinov is directing the maneuvers, codenamed "West-bi", which involve 100,000 men. They started last Friday and are due to end this weekend. The Warsaw Pact consists of the Soviet Union, Poland, East Germany, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, and Romania. The last time the defense ministers of the pact were assembled was for their regular annual. conference, held in Bucharest last December. Brief newspaper reports on the maneuvers Tuesday said that small-scale tactical excercies were taking place in various zones. But in general the land, air and sea forces taking part were preparing for a major mock battle later in the week.

Big landing ships moored off the Lithua-man coast had begun taking troops on board and military engineers were constructing pontoon bridges at river crossings. Official reports said the forces involved have been divided into two armies, which will face each other in the operation later in the week.

Gen. Jaruzelski was last in the Soviet Union less than a month ago when he and Polish Communist Party leader Stanislaw Kania met President Leonid Brezhnev in the Crimea. Western diplomats said it was
